100 PROJECTS TO WATCH

The Holzkurier's editorial team analyzed 100 investment projects in the DACH region and the neighboring countries and illustrated them on this map and in the table below. One relevant aspect in our ranking was that the production sites were launched this year or will go into operation in the coming years. Also, not only the absolute investment sum was taken into account, but also the significance of the project for the respective company.

Will we have enough raw material in the future? What can be done to tackle the shortage of (skilled) workers? What products does the modern timber construction sector need? How can you use resources in an efficient way? How can the reuse of materials be promoted? Can production be made more cost-efficient?

These are some the most important questions the timber industry will have to find answers to in the coming years.
